

What will you do to end childhood hunger?

What is the Summer Food Service Program?

The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) was established in 1975 to provide free meals to children so that they receive the same high quality nutrition during school vacations that they get in school cafeterias during the school year. Continued nutrition helps children return to school ready to learn after summer vacation.

The SFSP is a federally funded program operated nationally by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and administered in Delaware by the State Department of Education. Organizations with summer programs for kids sponsor the program and the State Department of Agriculture reimburses them for all meals served free at approved feeding sites in low-income areas to children 18 years and under.

Statewide, there is great need for the SFSP, particularly in those areas of the State with many children eligible for free or reduced price school meals.

How can you participate in the SFSP?

1. Become a sponsor;
2. Run a feeding site;
3. Be a meal vendor; or
4. Volunteer to help a sponsor or site.

Who can sponsor the SFSP?

Sponsorship of the SFSP is open to:

- schools;
- government agencies;
- summer camps; and
- private nonprofit organizations (e.g., churches, Community Action Agencies).

Interested organizations should call the State administering agency for further information.

What is a feeding site?

Sponsors can provide free meals at a central site such as a school, a park, a playground or a community center. Schools that are offering summer courses can open their meal service to the entire community by participating in the SFSP.

Meals are served free at sites that are operated or sponsored by a local organization and that are approved by the State Department of Education. In order for a site to be approved, at least 50 percent of the children in the area it serves, or 50 percent of its enrolled children, must be eligible for free or reduced price School Lunch meals.

Most sites may serve up to two meals daily, usually a lunch and a breakfast.

Camps can serve up to three meals daily, as can sites that serve primarily migrant children.

How Do I Provide a Meal Service?

Sponsors may choose to prepare the meals they serve under the program, contract with a school, or obtain them from a commercial meal vendor.

What kind of financial assistance is available?

Sponsors earn reimbursement for every meal served to a child. Sponsors receive reimbursement for costs on the basis of the number of meals served to children times the appropriate reimbursement rates below.

Sponsors that prepare their own meals or are located in rural areas can get a higher rate of administrative payment. The reimbursement rates for the summer of 2014 are provided below:

For meals served at rural or self-preparation sites
breakfast	$2.0225
lunch/supper	$3.5450
snack	$0.8400
For meals served at other types of sites
breakfast	$1.9850
lunch/supper	$3.4875
snack	$0.8225
